LUCK WAS AGAINST THEM.

Morris and the Boys Play Well, but Boston Wins Another.

There are many results in human efforts that make people weary enough to not only lie dow for a while, but prompt a desire to wash one bands of all things that concern the daily affair of life. Such like results often come in base ball; not because they are altogether meritebut because that fickle old mythical personne and again takes sides against us. If ever th that mood vesterday in the ball game at Recre ation Park between the home talent and th big people from Boston. Whether or not be frowns were on us because of the long absenc of Morris from the base is probably open to sett out for interfering with fields reappeared, did extraordinary work and was as frog under a hurrying farmer's harrow.

Morris reappeared in his old-time form with-out a doubt, and against what is termed the present terrors of the League; but the old dame above referred was not induced to give him even an equal share of her smiles. He and his colleagues were beaten on a very fine day and in the presence of about 2,400 good hearted spectators. Of course at the finish of the game the score told in very definite terms that the big fellows nad the best of it by 2 to 1, but to show how that result was brought about downright good playing on the part of the winners

THEY PLAYED GREAT BALL.

Certainly the aspiring champions played excellently; just in a way that convinces people that they want nobody to tread on the tails of their coats. But the home team were in line visitors, and that decided one of the closest contests that has been witnessed here.

There may be consoling features in defeat rate it is reasonable to say that there was a cheering feature of yesterday's defeat. When the appouncement went forth that Morris would pitch probably the great majority of spectators present expected to see him knocked into next season, or some other season much further ahead. But there was a very pleasing disappoinment in store for everybody. He never pitched better; he showed good speed and manipulated the ball in a way that puzzled the star stuggers from the city of beans. This was a surprise, and afforded consolution so far that if he can keep up his gait of vesterday there is a satisfactory future in store for the local club, as far as Marris is concerned. factory future in store for the local club, as far as Morris is concerned. He was as chipper as a college youth starting out on a vacation with a good "supply from the old man," and right to the end of the game displayed pluck and vim that warrant an expectation of future victories. In this expectation there is a con solation even in the face of vesterday's defeat.

MUST NOT FORGET THE BOSTONS But we must not forget the Bostons. Depend upon it, they are out with the full determination of convincing the people that they are on deck and propose to do business. They are as ready to take anything that comes their way as short, they are very tough people, and when victory is wanted in Pittsburg the Bostons are better out of the way. It would be difficult to hetter out of the way. It would be difficult to name a man among them who is the real Jonah to opposing teams, but if that deer-footed and eagle-clawed Mi. Johnston had been out of the way yesterday, the local aggregation might have won the game. He caught a ball from Smith's bat that looked like knocking a fence rail out; and long Tom Brown thoroughly put the light out by getting hold of a corker from Caroll's but this amound to be 30 feet away. Carroll's bat that seemed to be 30 feet away from the grasp of Mr. Brown. Had the latter not been in mood to do the phenomenal, the two men on bases at the time would certainly have scored. But there were many features like these, and it seemed as if it was useless to make a good hit except by knocking the ball outside the lot.

On the other hand, Brouthers and Richardson got two of the luckiest hits ever seen. The former just dropped a nice slow fly in short right field when Sunday was playing out. Dunlap ran for it, but was far short of the mark. Richardson secured a lucky infield hit that was a superstantial to the mark of t made everybody weary because of its harmless-ness and simplicity. The hits, for as such they had to go on record, enabled the great Michael, who had reached first on balls, to score.

ON PINS AND NEEDLES. The game was one of the pin-and-needle sort. Not a batter could do anything with either Morris or Madden. The pair of left-paw twirlers kept everybody guessing right to the finish. In the first inning it did look as if the miss. In the first liming it did look as if the visitors were going to tally. After Brown had been retired by knocking the first ball pitched bang into Sunday's hands, Johnston reached first on a muffed fly by Dunlap. The latter anwisely ran back into Hanlon's territory. Kelly then fouled out to Beckley, and big Dan Broathers made a hit into right field. When Richardson loomed up, and two men on bases, dreams of loomed up, and two men on bases, dreams of old time swipes flashed across the minds of the and time swipes flashed across the minus of the crowd. Morris was equal to the emergency, however, and Richardson died at first. Brown's phenominal catch in the fifth stopped the home team from scoring, with two men on bases.

The sixth inning was reached before a run The sixth inning was reached before a run was made, and the visitors made it. After Johnston had knocked the ball into Beckley's handt, Kelly got a base on balls and then the hits of Brouthers and Richardson, above referred to, brought the "only Kel" in. In the seventh inning, after two men were out, Brown reached first on a pardonable fumble by Beckley. Johnston then came to the front with a carking transparent left and Brown with a carking transparent left and Brown. with a corking two-bagger to left and Brown got home.

In the ninth Maul led off with a splendid. single to right and got second on a passed ball.
Beckley knocked an easy fit to Richardson who was waiting for it. Dundap then sent out a grounder to Nash, who had to struggle so hard to get it that Panny was safe and Maul got to third. Kuchne then knocked out a long fly to Ganzel and Maul scored on the throw, but Ganzel had the ball at second just in time to nab Dunlap, who foolishly ran into the trap. That ended the argument.

REALLY THE BEST.

The Spiders Are Downed by the Giants in a Hot Fight. CLEVELAND, June 20.-The Cleveland and New York clubs played the best game of ball ever seen in this city to-day. In the eighth inning the New Yorks won by pure luck. Ward made a base hit and stole second. Stricker ran to his base to head off Ward and just then Connor hit the ball between first and second bases. Stricker, if he had remained where he was, would have taken the ball, and in all probabilities made a double play, thus retlring the "Old Jeems" will be in the box to-day for the home people, and our sluggers will have another try at John Clarkson. The latter is a fine gentleman, and it may be that he will be the victim, as of old. To-day's contest, however, will prove that Carroll will catch Galvin, and Bennett will look after Clarkson. Radbourne is hors de combat for a while with "Charley horse." The nines, excepting the changes mentioned, will be as yesterday, except Kelly will be in right field instead of Ganzel. Miller is not ready to work because of his finger, and Galvin wants Carroll to catch him.

Colonels' Friends. LOUISVILLE, June 20.-The Louisville Club LOUISVILLE, June 20.—The Louisville Clab got back to-day but rain prevented them from playing with St. Louis, only two men going to bat before a heavy shower came up. The attendance did not exceed 150 people. Mr. Davidson did not come in with the men, having left the train at North Vernon, Ind., to send a dispatch and it pulled out before he could return. He made a valiant effort to get on the train but he missed it hy a few feet. For this train but he missed it by a few feet. For this reason nothing was done in the way of a settlereason nothing was done in the way of a settlement of the club's trouble. An effort will be made to buy him out at once, as everybody is disgusted with his management.

The papers are very severe on him, and the Times has the following headlines announcing the club's arrival to-day: "From glory's field. Return of Louisville's unrivaled aggregation of alleged baseball players, now that we have them home what can we do with them? They might be taken out and drowned, but water feels too pleasant this weather. Leave them alone with Davidson."

The players have but little to say about their troubles, but think the Association will see them through. Mr. Von der Ahe was asked what could be done, and he answered:

"I can't tell you now, but in good time the Association will take the club in its own hands. I can promise you one thing, Loulsville is in no danger of losing her membership in the Association. It is too good a ball town for that."

ANOTHER JOHNSTOWN COLLAPSE. The Ball Team Withdraws From the Per

The Johnstown team has been playing a series of games for the benefit of the sufferers of their fil-tated town, but with the game to-day they have fallen $8 short in paying expenses.

At a league meeting this afternoon the Johnstown team withdrew in consequence of not being able to secure grounds, their diamond now being part of the Conemangh river bed. The league clubs now comprise Greensburg, Latrobe, Scottdale and Uniontown, the latter having reorganized after disbanding in order to do away with too high-priced players.

The festival proper began at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and ere the gates closed late in the evening, it is estimated that fully 5,000 people passed in and scattered over the beautiful grounds and buildings or were lured by the ladies or misses to the different booths, and ere they left bought many a thing they wanted not. Who could refuse a coquettish maid or entertaining lady who sold their wares for charity's sake? BURKE IS POSITIVELY IDENTIFIED. The Final Arrangements Are Being Made for Speedy Extradition.

> Patrick O'Sullivan has weakened and told all that he knows about the murder of Dr. Cronin. The details of his confession have not been made public, but Chief Hubbard asserts that he will have all of the conspirators arrested inside of two weeks. Officer Collins has identified Burke, and steps are being taken for his extradition. The grand jury is nearly through with its work of investigation.

The festival was arranged by the lady managers of the home as follows: Mrs. Bissell, President; Mrs. Ross Johnston, Vice President; Mrs. Ross Johnston, Vice President; Mrs. Mary H. Childs, Treasurer: Miss Bakewell, Secretary; Mrs. Powers, Mrs. Stewart, Mrs. William Carr, Mrs. Reuben Miller, Mrs. Gorman, Miss Hancock, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Harding, Mrs. Iames Speer, Mrs. Wharton McKnight, Mrs. Kimberlein.

The booths were made of tent material, and were tastefully decorated. A novelty was introduced in the way of a tea tent, where tea was served. The tent was decorated in Japaneses style with carpet on the floor, and was a very inviting retreat for a sip of excellent tea, drawn by the ladies in charge as follows:

It is reported to-night that Iceman O'Sullivan has confessed his complicity in the conspiracy. This information comes from official sources. It has been known for a long time that the prisoner was weakening Mrs. Stockdale, Miss Shoup. About $25 was realized.

The Chancel Society of St. Andrew's Church booth was in charge of Miss Mary Wheeler, with the following aids: Misses Lulu and Carrie Cavitt, Sarah Barbour, Marion Young, Bessie Young and Miss Noble, of Washington. D. C. St. Andrew's Church also had a glass and china booth, the glassware being donated by Messrs. Adams & Co. and Bryce Bros. Miss Marie Orr was in charge, with the following aids: Miss Sarah Speer, Miss Carrie Stranahan, of Erie, Miss Alice Duff, and Masters George Wheeler and Will Speer. two weeks. Officer Collins, of Chicago, arrived at Winnipeg and identified Martin Burke as the man wanted for the Cronin murder. Immediately upon his arrival he proceeded to the police station, and together with Chief of Police McRae, entered Burke's cell. Burke looked up as they entered and Collins remarked: "Well, Burke, this is a bad place to be in."

A SLIP OF THE TONGUE. Burke replied instantly: "Yes, John it," but a minute later denied any knowledge of the Chicago detective. Collins, however, was satisfied and retired with Chief McRae. He drove to the residence of Judge Bain, where the following information was sworn out:

A weighing machine, loaned by Messrs. Fleishman & Co., also netted a good sum.

For some cause the Punch and Judy show was not given. The May-pole dance was performed three times during the afternoon by the little folks, dressed in white with garden hats. The dance had lost none of its novelty, and the pretty picture of the children going through the different figures charmed all. The following are their names: Anna Scott, Rei Bagaley, Louis Bailey, Bideil Suydam, Mary Brown, George McBride, Christine Slebenick, Harry Atwood, Alice Tindle, Perry Kiefer, Mary Painter and Victor King.

Donkey riding was another novelty enjoyed by the children. The older folks, not hovering about the booths, found pleasure in rambling through the grounds with its winding walk 'mid shrubbery and trees. CANADA. PROVINCE OF MANITOBA. COUNTY OF SELKIER.

secured another valuable patent, which was secured systerday. The inventor is Mr. Hiram S. Maxim, who became famous when he conceived the idea of his pocket gun. The Chicago police have under surveil-lance another suspect against whom they hope to secure evidence which will connect ceived the idea of his pocket gun.

The present patent relates to a method of rendering incandescent lamps capable of having the same illuminating power under the same intensity of current, so that any number of electric lamps connected in the same circuit give the same amount of light.

This patent has been in the office in Washington for seven years, and while the idea has been in use for some time, a patent therefor has never been issued, and for that reason the patent is very valuable. him with the conspiracy. At present the evidence against him is purely circumstantial. When the Carlson cottage revealed its terrible story one of the most promising clews which it presented was the lootprints The murderer who painted the parlor floo to cover the great splotch of blood which narked the place where Cronin fell, walked about in the paint in his stocking feet. Soon after the fact that the cottage was the scene of the murder was published with a full description of the paint tracks and blood marks, a shoemaker wrote to the police, offering a valuable suggestion. He said that a well-known Irishman and Clan-na-Gael man whose name he had seen mentioned in the newspapers in connecti with the murder was a customer of his, and that he had very peculiar feet. A piece of the floor about 30 inches square was cut out with three tracks on it, and was taken to police headquarters. Then the shoemaker was visited, and he was asked to produce try to get a more liberal law for their business than they have had hitherto. High license is a good thing. I believe in it, because it will keep a good many men out of the business who have no right to be in it. But what the brewers want is to see the right of distributing licenses taken out of the hands of Judges. Excise Commissioners, in my opinion, should be appointed like we have them in the State of New York, and the liquor business will be in a better shape than Pennsylvania has ever known it to be." his book in which he preserved the trac-ings showing the shape of his customers A PECULIAR FEATURE. The outlines of the suspected Irishman's feet were compared with the footprints taken from the floor and were found to correspond exactly in size and shape. The peculiarity about the foot which made the paint tracks is the depth of the hollow part of it. In the paint tracks there is great curve running in from the great toe to the heel, almost severing the latter from the front part of the foot. In the tracing in the shoemaker's measure book, which was made while the customer, with only a stocking on his foot, was standing on it, the same peculiarity is observed, while the singularity as to size makes it a remarkable coincidence at the least. Ever since this discovery was made the man has been watched by the police and is still so closely guarded that he could not leave the city. The board with the paint tracks on it and the measure book of the shoemaker have been on the grand jury room for several days and have been in-spected by the jurors. It is likely the suspect will be called before the jury for examination.

John R. Walsh, President of the Chicago National Bank, who was receiver for Rosenfeld & Co., brokers, after the failure of that firm in 1887, was before the grand jury for nearly an hour explaining the operations of ment service, is inclined to take a gloomy view of the outlook for the Herr's Island dam. He states that Sullivan on the Board of Trade in 1882-83 as indicated by the accounts of the defunct firm. It was reported that so far as Mr. Walsh's knowledge extended, Mr. Sullivan experienced no severe loss in his dealings ly delayed, as even if local hitches were gotten over there is still much preliminary work be-fore that on the improvement can be com-menced, and the local objections promise to be

O'Malley, one of the members of the trial committee that expelled Cronin from Camp 20 for treason, was on the rack for a considerable time, and was followed by Lawrence Buckley, the chairman of that committee, and Captain of the Clan-na-Gael Guards. The latter returned evasive answers when questioned regarding his rea-sons for first declining to lead the guards in the procession at the Cronin funeral, and both denied any intimacy with either Martin Burke or Michael Cooney.

Burke, however, is understood to have ter insisted that his acquaintance with the Winnipeg suspect was only a passing one. Dennison Ward was called upon to tell why he and John F. Beggs visited the East just after the Cronin murder. He avered that the visit was one of combined pleasure and politics, as he was at that time a candidate for office at the gift of the national administration, and deemed it prudent to go to Washington and get acquainted in order to increase his chances of preferment. He insisted that the Cronin matter had nothing whatever to do with it, and stated that, although he lived upon the same street as Tom Murphy, Treasurer of Camp 20, he knew nothing of that man's business or of the proceedings of the Clan-na-Gael. IDENTIFYING BURKE. Fred N. Allen, one of Revelles' employes and the man who took the furniture from the store to the Clark street flat, gave a minute description of the purchasers of the furniture, and thought Burke's photograph bore considerable resemblance to the one known as Frank Williams. Like the other witnesses, he was not certain as to the identity, as the photograph of Burke is a most abortive one, and shows but few distinct lines of the leatures.

The jury will resume its sessions at 10 o'clock to-morrow morning, and there is a probability that it will complete its labors this week. Nearly all evidence within the reach of the States Attorney has been produced, and unless the police succeed in capturing Cooney within the next 48 hours, or discovering additional evidence implicating the individual, the jury will doubtless render its final report on the Cronin case Saturday, and proceed to the consideration of other business.
